

Public Transportation (20 - 40w)

Prague Václav Havel Airport (PRG) is about 17 km north-west of the city center. Buses 199, 100 and 179 all pass a metro station which connects to city-bound lines, costing between 1 and 2 euros. Airport Express shuttle buses also run between the airport and the city center's train station, with the journey taking about half an hour and costing 2 euros.

Taxi (20 - 40w)

Taking a taxi from Prague Václav Havel Airport to the center is also fairly easy, and you can expect to pay between 18 and 21 euros for the trip. However, be aware that taxis running in the city center can be expensive - ask for a quote before you get in.
